LEGAL NOTICE – INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY OWNERSHIP & PROHIBITION OF UNAUTHORISED USE

This notice is issued by Safehold Ltd to inform all distributors, manufacturers, suppliers, procurement bodies and commercial operators involved in the fall-arrest and height-safety sector.

Safehold Ltd is the exclusive owner of the intellectual property associated with its product development activities, including but not limited to:

- Technical drawings
- CAD and design files
- Product specifications
- Prototypes and R&D documentation
- Branding assets and test data
- All derivative or adapted works

These materials are protected under copyright and design right law. Much of the intellectual property is covered by granted patents or pending patent applications filed in the United Kingdom and other jurisdictions.

Safehold Ltd has not authorised any third party to sell, licence, distribute, disclose or otherwise commercialise any materials originating from Safehold product development.

If any party is approached with product designs, drawings, data or documentation that may relate to Safehold systems or concepts, they are advised to:

1. Decline the material;
2. Retain proof of the approach;
3. Notify Safehold Ltd immediately.

Any unauthorised use, circulation or acquisition of Safehold intellectual property may constitute infringement and may result in legal action the remedies for which may include applications for injunctive relief, delivery-up, account of profits, damages and recovery of legal costs.

Safehold Ltd will vigorously defend its proprietary technology and reserves all rights and remedies in full.
